What is the Book of Zechariah about?

This book has the characteristics of an apocalypse. The visions resemble those in the books of Daniel and Revelation. Daniel was born within the land of Israel, but wrote his apocalypse outside of it. Zechariah was born outside of the land, but wrote his within the land. Daniel, Ezekiel, and John all wrote outside the land. Only Zechariah was in Israel when he wrote his apocalypse.

In the dark day of discouragement which blanketed the remnant, he saw the Glory in all of the rapture and vision of hope. He has more Messianic prophecies than any of the other minor prophets.

Charles Spurgeon on 1 John 5:16 –

An owner of a country estate may put up a sign that reads, "Danger: Beware of traps and spring guns." No one would think of going to the front door of the mansion and saying, "would you please tell me where the traps are set?"

If we asked that question, the answer would be, "The purpose of this warning is not to tell you where they are, for you have no business to trespass there at all."

So "all unrighteousness is sin," and we are warned to keep clear of it. "There is sin that leads to death," but we are not told what that sin is on purpose that we may, by the grace of God, keep clear of sin altogether.

"I heard of a woman in Scotland who was introduced to a minister by another minister as a woman of great faith. She instantly rebuked him by saying, 'No; I am a woman of little faith with a great God.' She had the right idea. If I have even a little faith, I have the power of the Almighty behind me" – D. L. Moody
