Spurgeon's Comments

"Remember Lot's wife. Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it." - Luke 17:32-33

When the time for separation arrived, Lot's wife could not tear herself away from the world. She had always been in it and had loved it and delighted in it.

Though associated with a gracious husband, when the time came for decision, she betrayed her true character. Flight without so much as looking back was demanded of her, but this was too much.

She did look back, and thus proved that she had sufficient presumption in her heart to defy God's command and risk her all--to give a lingering love-glance at the condemned and guilty world.

By that glance she perished. The love of the world is death. Those who cling to sin must perish, whoever they are. Our Lord bids us hold the world with a loose hand and always be ready to leave it all. When we are called to it, we are to be ready to go out without a particle in our hands.

Do Not Delay

On a Sunday night, October 8 1871, D. L. Moody preached to a large crowd in Chicago on the text, "What shall I do then with Jesus which is called the Christ?" At the conclusion of the message he told the people to go home and think for a week. Then they were to return and decide what to do with Christ.

Sankey began to sing:
Today the Saviour calls; for refuge fly; The storm of justice falls, and death is nigh.

The hymn was never finished. The rush and roar of fire engines broke in. Before sunrise Chicago lay in ashes. Moody resolved to never again tell people to decide later what to do with Christ.

Dr. Walter Wilson and a missionary friend were praying for a car which was greatly needed for the missionary's work in Africa. The missionary prayed, "O God, You know how badly I need a car. Any kind of an old, ramshackle car will do!" Dr. Wilson interrupted. "Stop praying that way, brother! God is not in the junk business!"
