The Bible Was Pawned

When 17-year old W.P. Mackay left his humble Scottish home to attend college, his mother gave him a Bible in which she wrote his name, and a verse of Scripture.

College was only the beginning of the lifestyle which saddened his godly mother. At one point he sank so low he pawned the Bible to get money for whiskey. His mother prayed for him until she died.

Eventually, Mackay became a doctor in a city hospital. One day a dying patient asked for his "book." After the man died, Mackay was curious to know what book could be so precious, so he searched the hospital room. He was surprised to find the very Bible he had pawned years before.

He went to his office and gazed again at the familiar writing, noticing many pages with underscored verses his mother had hoped he would read. After many hours in that office, Mackay knelt and prayed to God for mercy.

W.P. Mackay, the physician, later became a minister. The Book he once treated so lightly became his most precious possession.

Bugle Sound: "The Still"

In the British navy, whenever any sudden disaster, such as an explosion, occurs, it is the bugler's duty to play what is called "The Still," and when the men hear it each is to stop perfectly quiet for a moment and recollect his senses and thus be better prepared for intelligent action in the emergency. Psalm 46:10a
