Don't Blame My Hands

Pastor & educator Thomas K. Beecher, 1824-1900, despised deceit in any form. Finding that a clock in his church was habitually too fast or too slow, he hung a placard on the wall above it, reading in large letters: "Don't blame my hands—the trouble lies deeper."

That is where the trouble lies with us when our hands do wrong, or our feet, or our lips, or our thoughts. The trouble lies so deep that only God's miraculous power can deal with it. Sin goes deep; but Christ goes deeper and changes the heart and the will.

What it Takes to be a Friend

A cowboy explained his idea of Christian living: "Now I'm working for Jim here. If I'd sit around, telling what a good fellow Jim is, and singing songs for him, and getting up in the night to serenade him, I'd be doing just what a lot of Christians do; but I wouldn't suit Jim, and I'd get fired mighty quick. But when I buckle on my chaps and hustle among the hills, and see that Jim's herd is all right and not suffering from lack of water or feed or getting off range and branded by cattle thieves then I'm proving my love and serving Jim as he wants to be served."

Write to a Resident

Let's show some Christian love to those living in the Eden Heights Assisted Living Center. Write a "thinking of you" card (or two or ten!) to a generic resident. Include your name and address if you'd like them to write you back.

Give completed cards to Rebekah Tablante or put in her mailbox in Room 1.

Hearing Impaired Devices are available for all services. See any usher.

The Story of Two Brothers

There were two boys in the Taylor family. The older said he must make a name for his family, and so turned his face toward Parliament and fame. The younger decided to give his life to the service of Christ and so turned his face toward China and duty. Hudson Taylor, the missionary, died beloved and known on every continent. But when you look in the encyclopedia to see what the other son did, you will find only these words:

'The brother of Hudson Taylor.'
