The Christmas Gift

It should have been a palace
 Where the Blessed Baby lay,
 In a cradle's warmth and comfort—
 Not a manger filled with hay,
 For He was Himself Creator
 Of the heavens and the earth,
 But He'd left His Throne of Glory
 For a lowly, earthly birth.

There was nothing that He had not made
 But most incomprehensively,
 He laid aside His Royal Crown
 To save lost humanity!

He knew rejection from the world
 When His life had just begun,
 For no comfort, warmth, or shelter
 Were offered God's Own Son.

And in His earthly ministry
 He received few men's esteem
 Although He'd come to heal and help and a fallen world redeem.

The Scriptures tell us He was rich,
 But became, for our sakes, poor—
 That we, through grace, might be rich—
 And could enter Heaven's Door.

Yes, it should have been a palace
 Where the Blessed Baby lay
 But salvation's gift was humbly brought
 To a manger filled with hay.
