Love is Costly

She was lying on the ground, holding a tiny baby girl. As I put a cooked sweet potato into her hand, I wondered if she'd live till morning. A potato was so little, but it was all I had. Inland China was in famine.

Taking a bite, the mother chewed carefully then placed her mouth over the baby's, forcing the soft, warm food into the tiny throat. Though starving, the mother used the entire potato to keep her baby alive.

I later learned that the mother died during the night, but the baby lived. Love is a costly thing.
