His Mother's Bible

John W. Peterson (1921-2006) was the most prolific hymn writer of his day. He wrote 1000 songs and 35 cantatas. He credited his mother for the conversion of his soul and sanctifying (setting apart) of his life to Christ. After her death he wrote this description of her Bible:

*All the pages are so fingered -
Many verses underlined;
Places worn where mother lingered;
Where she left a tear behind.*

Why I Don't Attend Football

A church near the stadium of the Green Bay Packers, once published the following reasons why people don't attend games.:

- No one ever speaks to me when I go.
 - Sunday is the only day I get to sleep in.
 - We often have guests or go out of town that day.
 - The seats are hard.
 - The coach never comes to visit me, and he does not recognize me on the streets.
 - They want my money. I have to pay every time I enter.
 - The band plays new tunes. I like the old ones.
 - There are some people in the stands that I don't approve of. Many come just to be seen. They're hypocrites.
 - I can stay home and watch the game on TV.
 - I saw too many games as a child.
- Ridiculous isn't it? But for the church ...
