What is the Book of Deuteronomy about?

The name Deuteronomy comes from two Greek words, deuteros meaning second, and nomos meaning law. It is not a second law nor merely a repetition of the Law, but is a summary of the chief points of the Law as it affected the people in general, and was given by Moses in three great speeches to the children of Israel, as they were in the plain of Moab just about to enter the Promised Land.

Since all those who had come out of Egypt had died in the wilderness because of their disobedience (see Numbers 32), now Moses wished to emphasize to their children the importance of obeying God and the Law which had been given at Sinai (Exodus 19, 20).

Are You a Radical?

A friend asks if...

- you express your patriotism and love of this country,
- you object to obscene literature and want it removed from the shelves,
- you believe all Communists should be jailed or run out of the country,
- you think that government is killing the incentive of thousands, and perhaps millions, by fulfilling their needs without requiring them to work for it,
- you believe in God and prayer,
- you believe that the rights of the individual are superior to the rights of government,
- you believe that this government should give first consideration to this country and its people,
- you believe that it is impossible to coexist with communism,
- you are appalled at the rise in crime and immorality,
- you believe in constitutional government,
- you salute when the flag passes by,
- you stand at attention when "The Star Spangled Banner" is played or sung,
- you believe this country should be run by Congress and not by the Supreme Court,
- ...why it is that if you believe these things you are considered a radical or a 'kook' today?
