A Prayer

(Based on Psalms 141:3)

"Set a watch, oh Lord, before my mouth"

Open wide and search my heart,
 And there where unkind words begin,
 Help thoughts of love to start.

My lips, I know, were meant to praise
 And urge others to our King,
 Not to be used as weapons
 That will pain to others bring.

Oh, "keep the door of my lips—"
 May with love my soul be warmed
 That words of comfort and concern
 Replace those in anger formed.

For as Your dear Son upon the cross
 Suffered willingly for all
 That sin-bound men might come to Him
 And not to Satan fall—

He uttered not one bitter word
 For the torment and the shame—
 No reproving word to mockers
 For blaspheming His name,

But rose from His beaten, swollen lips
 An urgent plea to You
 Of: "Father, forgive them,
For they know not what they do!"

Such depths of love I cannot grasp—
 Oh, help me, Lord, I pray,
 Through all expressions of my lips
 To honor Him each day.
