No Conflict

When the founders of our country
 Signed that just and great decree—
 An independence declaration
 For a land of liberty,
 They must have looked far, far beyond
 All of life’s uncertainty
 And have seen a picture of the beauty
 Of what such a land could be—
 Free from the evil persecution
 That had driven men to flee
 From other countries of the world to seek here equality,
 A land where families and neighbors
 Could enjoy life peacefully,
 Free at last, from former days
 Of oppressive tyranny.
 But our country’s founders also knew
 Of man’s worldly tendency,
 Knew they could not rely on such
 To keep a free land free,
 As they signed that famous document,
 (From all accounts of history)
 That Declaration of Independence
 That proclaimed this country free,
 It’s apparent that they also made
 (And no conflict here we see)
 A Declaration of Dependence
 On God’s truth and sovereignty.
