I asked God, and God said, no.
 Yet how can I complain?
 The God of heaven answers me,
 And even knows my name.

I asked God, and God said, no.
 Should I begin to doubt?
 Does he not know more than me,
 Just 'cause I am without?

I asked God, and God said, no.
 Is He not free to choose?
 To answer best as He sees fit?
 To do what He will do?

I asked God, and God said, no.
 Should I, then, judge His plan?
 How can I, a jar of clay,
 Correct the Potter's hand?

I asked God, and God said, no.
 Though painful it may be,
He is God and I am not,
 And He knows more than me.

I asked God, and God said, no.
 But here, content, I see.
 With any answer He gives,
This is where I'd like to be.

If God is good, and has all power,
 And everything He knows,
 (And this is true)
 Then love is proved,
 even in answers "no."

God is good. His answers too,
 In coming from Himself.
 When I ask God, and God says, no.
 Then I say, it is well.
